Compiled directly from the live site at speakingwellofgod.org, so it reflects exactly what is published today.

How to read this

This is a complete listing of the material on the site, in one place, so you have an accurate record independent of any files on your own computer. It covers audio, video, written materials, and which languages each reaches. Everything below was read from the live site rather than from memory or notes.

The short answer to the question you asked most directly: yes, the Spanish Conversations About God exists, and it exists twice. There are twenty talks in audio and a written version of forty sections. Both are published and live. Nothing about them was lost.

Coverage at a glance

What each language actually has today.

LANGUAGE	PAGES	TITLES	CHAPTERS	AUDIO	DONATE

English and Spanish carry the substantial libraries, and Spanish is the only language besides English with any recordings. Every language has a home page, a Donate page and a Privacy page.

The two thinnest languages. Chinese and Slavic have three pages each and nothing else: the home page, Donate and Privacy. No books, no recordings. If further translation is ever commissioned, those two are where the site is emptiest. Bulgarian sits just above them with a complete fourteen chapter Servants or Friends.

Spanish, in detail

Spanish is the most developed language after English, and the only other one with recordings, so it is worth setting out on its own.

Conversaciones Acerca de Dios	40	Written: 20 chapters plus 20 handouts

On the Spanish Bible versions. The existing Spanish translations name the version used for each quotation, in the same way Graham quoted from several English versions rather than one. Across the Spanish pages the versions in use are Reina-Valera 1602 and 1960, the Nueva Versión Internacional, Dios Habla Hoy, La Biblia de las Américas, and the Biblia de Jerusalén. Siervos o Amigos chapters three and five are good worked examples for a translator to follow.
